I am delighted to learn that NACE International Gateway India Section (NIGIS) is celebrating its annual International Conference on Corrosion (CORCON 2017) during 17 – 20 Sept 2017 in Mumbai. I understand that this international conference also includes an exhibition, technical interactive fora and several technical symposia encompassing the participation from various industries, institutes and universities.

The corrosion awareness generated by NIGIS in the context of failure problems faced by various industries will go a long way in our Indian industry. I hope that the conference brings in new technologies in the area of corrosion science and technology which are vital in developing better corrosion prevention methodologies. I understand that corrosion is a serious industrial issue and impacts a nation's gross national product. The theme of the conference "Uniting the World in the fight against corrosion" is appropriate as the main objective of the conference is to bring awareness to corrosion challenges in industries In India, Asia and the whole world.

My congratulations to the NIGIS team who are doing a wonderful job for swatch bharat. I wish the conference a great success.
